

Hi, I'm Angie

Things I've discovered

Am I a feminist?

Angie Yuanmalai Lol - yes. And so is the gender pay gap and the fact that still less than 10% of FTSE 100 companies have female bosses.

Like · Reply ·  1 · 7 June 2016 at 18:38

10% of FTSE 100 companies have female bosses: is that coming from a generation that was still sexist? I don't see how our generation is that sexist anymore. Actually I feel that there are a lot of women in leadership positions nowadays.

Do I believe that older generations expected the women to stay at home and look after the children and men to have a career? Yes. Do I believe that in 2016 that is still the case? No. Why? Because everyone I know discuss and agree with their partners how they will raise the child. And do I also know women that would prefer to stay at home looking after the kids and meeting their friends for a tea in the afternoon? Hell yeah.

Like · Reply · 7 June 2016 at 21:31

“

We shouldn't be afraid of the word feminist. Men and women should use it to describe themselves.

Justin Trudeau,
(Hot) Prime Minister of Canada

Feminist

~~Feminist~~

Egalitarian

Women elsewhere

When women leaders like me do not feel the inequality, we tend to forget that something is not working.

Ida Auken
Member of the Danish Parliament

Every little helps

Hiring other women

“

For 25 years I was in workplaces that were dominated by men... and that thing about seeing images of men at the workplace was having its way with my brain

Julia Whitney,
Former Executive Creative Director at BBC

INVISIBLE.CAREERS

WHY IS WHAT WE LEARN IN CUBICLES SEEN AS MORE VALUABLE THAN WHAT WE LEARN IN LIFE?

A GAP IN YOUR RESUME SHOULDN'T MAKE YOU CAREER INVISIBLE.

In a modern world, we're sometimes faced with an old-school mentality that evaluates a person's work value on work experience alone.

Yet isn't it possible that raising a child may actually help equip a person to parent a team?

01

Be an egalitarian

02

Every little helps

03

Empathy into action

Want more?

VIDEO IQ2: What's next for feminism?

VIDEO Julia Whitney on Unconscious Bias

MICROSITE Invisible.Careers

Thank you.